

Important Safety Information

LittleLife Featherlite Lightweight Travel Cot

It has come to our attention that even though the Featherlite Lightweight Travel Cot has passed all relevant British Standard safety testing, under certain circumstances the cot can become unstable which could potentially lead to the cot tipping over.

LittleLife take all safety issues very seriously and so in the interests of customer safety we have taken the decision to recall all these cots in order to prevent any risk of harm to users.

The cot is currently being redesigned to prevent the risk of tipping and we expect the new version to be available shortly.

We would ask anyone that has purchased any of these items to return the cot along with a proof of purchase to the address shown below indicating if you like a new replacement version when available or a full refund. All return postage charges will also be fully reimbursed.

Please contact neil.butler@lifemarque.co.uk (mailto:neil.butler@lifemarque.co.uk?subject=LittleLife%20Featherlite%20Lightweight%20Travel%20Cot) if you have any questions or concerns regarding the cot.
